Fortuitously, a dry winter followed by early spring rains created a balanced budbreak and shoot growth. The spring continued to be dry, which was in line with the typical weather in wine country. The slightly above-average temperatures during the summer were ideal for fruit development and ripening, and remarkably, there were no days above 100°. As a result, the vines ripened slowly and without heat stress. The extended hang time and consistent cluster ripening contributed to vibrant color and fine-grain tannins, making this vintage particularly memorable. The wines are complex and structured, and their refined balance suggests they will age well.

The 2021 Relevant presents a captivating bouquet of black cherry and cassis, accented with hints of violet and cocoa. On the palate, it showcases our site's distinctive fine-grained tannins and silky texture. The wine's complexity is a testament to our unique terroir, where the warm days and cool nights provided ideal ripening conditions. This vintage reflects its coastal origins, delivering finesse, depth, and layers.
